ABOUT THE BAND:

VOODOO BAYOU, born from the rich musical soil of Houma, Louisiana, this 5-piece group crafts a distinctive blend of indie South Louisiana roots rock shaped by brotherhood, honesty and lived experience. The bands' music carries the warmth of the bayou, the grit of the road, and the sincerity of storytellers unafraid to speak the truth.

Currently recording its second album "Step Into the Sun" at the renowned Dockside Studio in Maurice, Louisiana, the project features eleven new songs inspired by the exhilaration of discovering pure, grounded love and the courage to leave behind the darker chapters of life. Guided by faith and a renewed sense of purpose, the album reflects a collective desire to heal, grow, and move toward the light.

The songwriting is raw and unfiltered, touching on love, loss, addiction, abuse, redemption, and the fragile beauty of starting over. Each track is offered as a companion to anyone navigating life's storm. It's a reminder that no one walks alone. Their influences echo through their sound: the soulful ease of Bill Withers, the timeless warmth of James Taylor, the southern fire of the Allman Brothers, the heartfelt grit of Chris Stapleton, the harmonies of America and Restless Heart, the groove of Santana, and the storytelling spirit of artists like David Wilcox, Sean McConnell, Wade Bowen and Blackberry Smoke.

Bound by deep friendship and shared purpose, the band hopes their music becomes a source of comfort, courage, and connection. Step Into the Sun is not just an album - it's an invitation to rise, to heal, and to believe again.

VOODOO BAYOU's up and coming music, has most recently been selected for a soon to be released movie/documentary at the Sundance Film Festival. Our music can also be heard on KBKB 101.7 "The Bull" in Burlington, IA, along with select south Louisiana radio markets, WKSJ 94.9 in Mobile, AL and also WXFL KIX96.1 in Florence, AL/Columbia, TN areas.
